The CAD Team - Tailored solutions to fit your business

The CAD Team or Custom application development team at Business 1st offers Companies, software development for our clients specific function or needs. While all software developed by our CAD team is technically custom, the difference between this and all other services is that packaged applications are designed with a general set of features to be used by a broad range of users. Our CAD team is capable of producing practically any feature you may desire for your online business. Time and money are virtually the only limiting factors.

Quality planning = Quality systems

Quality planning and design is the key to successful custom application development.

It can give your website unique and valuable features which can far outstrip any off the shelf application.

Gain that competitive edge

The CAD Team, offers your company an opportunity to develop a competitive advantage by using technology in a more productive or effective way than your competitors. Custom application development needn't be expensive. Our solutions can become an efficient method for both industry leaders and small companies to reduce expenses and retain a competitive advantage in the long run.

Have it your way

We provide total flexibility in terms of Custom application development - the process is essentially "Client Driven". It is important to remember that a well-designed database should provide the end product that is tailored to meet both your professional and practical business needs and therefore serve its intended purpose.

The Custom application development process normally includes, but is not limited to:

- > Comprehensive and detailed analysis of the business needs
- > Preparation of design specifications
- > Initial design concept
- > Programming
- > Testing/validation
- > Client support (Training & support material provided)
- > Ongoing development and maintenance
